

April 23rd, 2018:

Behavioral Economics and the Prospects of a New Economic System Based on Wellbeing

BY: Prof. Paul Sutton, DU Dept. of Geography and the Environment Paul Sutton

Slides and links:

- Presentation – PowerPoint: Sutton Toward A Sustainable Wellbeing Economy
- Presentation – PDF: Sutton Toward A Sustainable Wellbeing Economy
- Handouts:
 - 2018.04.23p Assessing Human and Ecological Wellbeing for Colorado concept paper
 - 2018.04.23 Half-page Doughnut Economics Models
- Links:
 - Kate Raworth: Donut Economics video: Why it's time for 'Doughnut Economics' | Kate Raworth | TEDxAthens: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=1BHOfIzxPjI&feature=youtu.be>
 - Kate Raworth homepage (TEDtalk and doughnut model): . : https://www.kateraworth.com/doughnut/
 - A good life for all within planetary boundaries; O'Neill et al.: nature.com/articles/O'NEILL ET AL.
 - Related; allow interactive comparison of countries to one another: <https://goodlife.leeds.ac.uk/>
 - <https://www.nationalreview.com/corner/environmentalists-push-global-wealth-redistribution/>

This Forum built upon the January EEE Forum's theme of "Measuring Economic Well-Being: The Genuine Progress Indicator." Professor Paul Sutton, DU Dept. of Geography and the Environment, will speak about the vision and strategies of the Wellbeing Economy Alliance (WE-ALL)—a recently-established organization committed to addressing the above problem globally (<http://www.wellbeingeconomy.org/>).